Exhibit 99.01

OG&E Electric Services announced today that it notified the Oklahoma Corporation Commission of the company's decision to move its request for a general rate change to later this year. OG&E had previously indicated that it planned to file a rate proposal as early as the end of June.

"Our plan to file in June was based on our completing the negotiation and signing of a definitive purchase agreement for the acquisition of a new power plant," said Brian Alford, Manager, Corporate Communications and Community Relations. "Negotiations are ongoing, and we expect to acquire generation in 2003. We'll file a rate proposal with the Commission when we complete an agreement."

Alford added that the additional time would also allow the company to improve its case and more accurately reflect the company's current costs.

"This is a very important acquisition for our ratepayers and our company because it represents an opportunity for long-term savings on fuel and purchased power costs," Alford said. "We want to ensure that we bring the most complete and accurate information to the Commission that we can."
